Main theme

In addition to 'Trends and Forecasts', the PLP 2011 conference looks at 'The right to know'. The Freedom of Information Act, Environmental Information Regulations and Data Protection Act allow access to information held by public authorities, but how easy is it to use this legislation, and is it always effective in promoting transparency? These are key questions for public lawyers and for the Public Law Project. With this theme in mind, we have commissioned plenary sessions from Maurice Frankel, Director of the Campaign for Freedom of Information and from Professor Conor Gearty. There is also a specially commissioned workshop on making Freedom of Information Act requests.

About the Public Law Project

PLP is an independent, national legal charity which aims to improve access to public law remedies for those whose access is restricted by poverty, discrimination or other similar barriers. To fulfil its objectives PLP undertakes research, policy initiatives, casework and training across the range of public law remedies.
